

ALBANY STRIKE

But Distrustful Wife Has Him Arrested on Charge of Non-Support.

DEMANDS HIS WAGES.

Man Says He Earns $65 Monthly and Gives $64.80 to Hempstead—Is Freed.

With an old king's wife then a chap may have fun.
And expensive tastes he can tickle;
But he never can pose as a prodigal son If his income is only a nickel.

What disposition William Hogan makes of five cents a week is the question that is agitating Jersey City today. Hogan admits he spends it, and his wife, who had him arrested for non-support, agrees with him, but what Jersey City desires to know is just how Hogan spends his portion of the money for which he works.

Over the back fences, where the women swap experiences and tell of the homecoming to the head of the house with more than a white man's burden that cost a week's salary and discuss the prodigality of man, Hogan is an object of curiosity.

If Hogan drinks it is feared that he can get one large Jersey City scholar and be riotous at a free lunch counter once a week. If he delights in "third rail" there are places where he may be accommodated with a glass of that shock for five cents, and if he is fond of travel it is pointed out that once every two weeks Hogan can become a tourist. By boarding his income for one week and adding to it the next week's savings he can buy two ferry tickets, one to carry him to New York and one to carry him home, and then have four cents left with which to indulge his appetite for cigars, liquor, candy or fruit.

Can Play the Prodigal.

It has been feared out that if Hogan saved his net income for a week or two might be able to go to Coney Island some Sunday, enjoy the car ride, have a dip in the ocean, take in a few of the shows, eat a frankfurter and have enough left to get him home in time to go to work to save again for another outing.

Something in Hogan's manner impressed Mrs. Hogan a few days ago that he was going to balk at giving up $32.40 on his pay day, so she left her home at No. 415 Henderson street and obtained a warrant for his arrest for non-support. Yesterday Hogan was dragged to court before Justice Higgins.

"You are charged with non-support," said the Justice.

"It is untrue, Your Honor. I make $65 a month, and I get paid every two weeks, and I give my wife $32.40 and keep ten cents for myself."

Wife Wants Her Share of Income.
The wife then asked the Justice of the wife, who stood by.

"Yes," said the wife. "You see, my husband was paid last Saturday, and I was afraid he would not give me my share of the money, and so I had a warrant issued for him on Friday."

"Did he give it to you?" inquired the Justice.

"Oh, yes; but I forgot to tell the officer to withdraw the warrant, and so it was served," replied the wife.

Hogan was fumbling about his pocket as though looking for the other time and waiting the Court's decision, when the Justice looked at the wife and, turning to Hogan, said:

"You may go."
Hogan was permitted to keep his ten cents.

SECRET WAYS IN TILDEN MANSION

Discovery Made by Workmen Leads to Theory that Great Democrat Feared the Worst During the Days of 1876.

Workmen engaged in remodeling the old Samuel J. Tilden residence, Nos. 14 and 15 Gramercy Park, have unearthed many curious passages in the house and the cellar.

One of these is a private stairway which leads to a bathroom, which in its day was an elaborate affair. Dressing-rooms and a closet reached by secret doors lead from this room. The stairway reaching it was cleverly concealed in the building of the house, and none of the tenants since the death of the famous politician and statesman have ever known of its existence.

From the cellar there are several passages leading to destinations that have not yet been determined. One leads from the rear of the cellar apparently to the rear garden of the old mansion.
They are too small to admit a large man.

One absurd theory in connection with the discovery of the secret passages is that the great Democrat, after the revelation of the ring, was afraid of assassination by friends of the boss of Tammany Hall.

Another theory is that the passages were made at the time the feeling ran high in 1876, when the election was claimed by both Tilden and Hayes, and when Mr. Tilden's life was repeatedly threatened.

It is believed that at that time he was impressed by his friends with the necessity of having some place of concealment or method of leaving his home in case the place ever should be threatened by a mob. Anything, even a civil war, was considered a possibility because of the bitter feeling pending the seating of either Mr. Tilden or President Hayes.

It was even feared that some crank or adherent of Mr. Tilden, furnishing at his residence, might attempt his life.

PRESIDENT FAVORS INSURANCE BILL.

Senator Dryden Will Introduce a Measure at Coming Session Providing for Federal Control.

There is to be an attempt at the coming session of Congress to place the life insurance business under the control of the Federal Government. This was decided upon yesterday at a conference at Oyster Bay between President Roosevelt, Senator John F. Dryden, of New Jersey, author of an in-insurance bill introduced in the last Congress, and James M. Beck, former Assistant Attorney-General and now counsel to the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

It was decided that a bill, that will have the full support of the administration, will be introduced in the Senate at the next session of Congress. This will be for the purpose of testing before the Supreme Court the much disputed question as to the constitution-ality of the Federal insurance statute.

BREAKERS HERE

Farley Has Everything All Ready to Work the Trolley Cars in the Capital if the Traction Employees Decide to Go Out.

Strike-breakers are now marshalled in New York to prevent an impending strike among street railway employees in Albany. Fifty of Farley's veteran strike-breakers, who saw service in the Subway trouble, are now held awaiting orders at No. 170 Broadway, and more are being hired as fast as they turn up.
Several hundred motorbuses and conductors are being quartered at a restaurant in Brooklyn. All these men are under pay and have been for several days.

It was expected that the Albany strike would take place to-day, for the strikebreakers were compelled to report at No. 170 Broadway last night with values for the absence of several weeks.
Later the men were told to report this evening.

Peace Envoy, has written a strong and thrilling novel, "My Love Affair," which will appear serially in The Evening World, beginning next Monday,

Abundance of Bread.

While not bakers, we are by far the largest distributors of bread in and about Greater New York. Our system is so perfect that with very little extra trouble or expense we could supply bread to every family within easy reach of our 160 GROCERY STORES—a population of between three and four million people.

Here again Quantity plays the important part, enabling us to uphold the quality and reduce the cost. We buy so largely that we can supply our customers with the best bread at a price less than they would pay at the bakeries, were each family to buy singly. As an indication of what we can do in a pinch like the present, these prices will hold this week (except in the Suburban stores) until the closing hour next Saturday night, viz:—

4 Loaves of Fresh Bread, 5c.
3 Loaves of Vienna Bread, 5c.

Other prices for staples, provisions, standard and fancy groceries, pure foods, and for fine wines and liquors (imported and domestic), will be found equally attractive to housekeepers who practise true economy. Some of the specials for this week are:

The Great Sale of Furs and Fur-Lined Coats.

ever held. It embraced

$100,000 Worth of Fine Furs at Less than Half Value

The sale has been unexpectedly successful in the volume of business transacted. We did not think so many people would be interested in a sale of Furs in August. Hundreds who came on a tour of inspection found prices irresistible, and they bought. No fur sale could have choicer selections—no fur sale now on anywhere equals this in scope, quality or moderation of prices.

We are desirous of having you make your own comparisons. Wisdom and economy will urge you to make your selections at Bloomingtondale.
